"Language is the road map of a culture. It tells you where it's people come from and where they are going."

Rita Mae Brown.

I'm totally agree with Rita's quote. I'm learning English myself but my native language is Russian.

I'm going to be honest with you, but in my opinion, it's super hard to learn something, especially when it comes to such things like studying other language. It's so complicated, but when you realize it, this feels like the world spinning around you.

Gr. 08/27

My personal reasons to study languages are simple: I just wanted to understand others and speak with them on one wave, in my case, with English speakers.

You know, I don't want to do some major stuff like becoming a teacher or fly to another country when I fully learn English. My dream is simple! I just want to understand and communicate without any translator and language borders. I want to develop my decision-making skills and confidence. I want to be able to understand English books, films.

I want to just yapping with my ^{GR} Foreign Friend and access to English only literature or background knowledge.

There is no need to be a genius or something like that to learn new language. You will be able to see a new world where people come from and where they are going. World, full of excitement and mysteries you ^{GR} never told yet. It's amazing feeling, trust me.
