I want to start this essay by introducing the point of it. What I'm going to write about is the "Be the change that you wish to see in the world" quotation by Mahatma Gandhi.

In my opinion, this quotation is a very powerful one that people shall follow. If you want people to do something, then you should do the same thing, since nobody is going to listen to someone random do what they want. People also need the example of someone doing this thing and the result of it. Gr

For example, if you want people to be more <sup>more</sup> expressive, then you yourself have to be more expressive. It's like the Dominoes effect. If you start doing something, people will realize that it's okay to do it. Gr

Since I first started wearing lots and lots of pins on my bags and clothes, I've started noticing more and more people do the exact ~~the~~ same thing. I even feel proud!

In conclusion, I want to say that people are like animals that follow their leader. So, if you want to change the world, start off small. Be brave and show people your own changes, and they might change too! Never be a coward! Gr.
